Ongoing Haryana projects to be brought under RERA soon

SURBHI PRASAD New Delhi, February 12

THE 'ONGOING' PROJECTS which were not included under the ambit of Haryana Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act so far will now soon have to register with the Act, the newly appointed chairperson of the Gurgaon bench of Haryana Real Estate Regulatory Authority (H-RERA), KK

"Rules cannot supersede the main Act. It is illegal and even the Bombay High Court has categorically said it. Even the 'ongoing projects' will now have to register," Khandelwal said. In December, in a victory for Khandelwal, has said.

homebuyers, the Bombay High Court had upheld the constitutional validity of RERA and its applicability to ongoing projects across states.

The Central Act simply has a completion certificate as the benchmark for exemption of projects under RERA. It clearly states that projects that have not received completion certificate on the date of the notification of the Act will be considered ongoing.

The Haryana government has been facing severe criticism from homebuyers for "diluting the Central law by changing the definition of ongoing projects", leaving almost 90% of the city's residential projects outside the purview of the Act.

"After the judgment of the Punjab and Haryana High Court, the ongoing projects will have to come under RERA,' Khandelwal said.

Gurgaon Citizens' Council (GCC), a city-based public representative body of licenced colonies, has moved the Punjab and Haryana HC seeking implementation of RERA rules. The hearing is on February 20 and homebuyers are hopeful that the Haryana government will include projects that are not registered with RERA.

The Bombay HC has ruled out part-completion as the basis for exemption from RERA registration."There are around 1,000 ongoing projects in Gurgaon and nearly 300 new launches. So far just 254 new projects have been registered. The number will go up soon," Khandelwal said.

Funds diversion: 11 Noida builders asked to clarify within a week

FE BUREAU New Delhi, February 12

THE NOIDA AUTHORITY has issued notices to 11 builders and their projects after a report submitted by international consultancy firm Currie & Brown alleged that they had diverted the money collected from homebuyers for completing various projects.

"The audit was carried into accounts of 14 erring builders following which 11 were found suspicious and have been issued notices. The detailed analysis of the report submitted by the agency showed no misuse or diversion of funds collected by the homebuyers into other projects. However, the money collected from the homebuyers and the expense on the housing project showed variations," Noida Authority chief executive officer Alok Tandon said.

The authority has given seven days to the builders to provide a clarification. According to officials, the builders who were issued notices include Unitech, Unitech Acacia Projects, Logix City Development, Three C Properties, Gardenia Aims Developers, Granite Gate Properties, Red Fort Jahangir, Omaxe Build Home and Pebbles Prolease.

The decision to conduct audit came after homebuyers alleged that the builders have diverted funds collected from them into other projects, thus failing to deliver the possession of their flats by the promised date. Following this, the authority had, on November 8 last year, hired Currie & Brown to audit accounts of the 51 defaulter builders who are facing charges of diversion of funds collected from various homebuyers. In the first phase, the agency conducted audits of accounts of 14 builders having around 36,000 flats in their various housing projects. The audit of accounts of the remaining 37 builders will be done in the second phase.
